Scarcity of Crude Rubber.
The scarcity of crude rubber throughout the world's market and the high prices which must necessarily follow continue to surprise the entire rubber trade, says the Boot & Shoe Recorder. The crude rubber market has advanced 70 per cent. since last January and crude materials which were selling then at $1.20 per pound are now quoted at $2.10 per pound and have fared an advance in every line of rubber goods. That there is a serious scarcity of stock can be seen from the fact that old scrap rubber is quoted at 10 1/2 cents per pound in carload lots, just double what has been considered a top notch price. Rubber boots and shoes have advanced 12 1/2 per cent. since last season and some goods the retailers have to pay this year practically just what they sold them for last season. Automobile tires have advanced 30 per cent. It is said that the demand for Para rubber has overtaken the supply with a vengeance. The tire manufacturers are in actual need of crude material and are practically taking all the sales. A large part of the stock held in Boston has been padded out in small lots to these manufacturers who were obliged to purchase at whatever price they could in order to keep their factories at work. The great and increasing demand on the market for crude material by the tire manufacturers and the low water in the rivers in South America which has hindered the shipping into the preliminary ports is blamed for the drought in the market.

The city engineering department is taking a record of the traffic on certain streets in the city to show the number of pedestrians, teams and autos and the number of people who ride in the teams and autos that pass a certain point between the hours of 6 in the morning and 9 at night. This work is done in all of the large places, and City Engineer Reed is doing it here so that he can get a comparison of the traffic on our main streets and sidewalks with other cities. Yesterday a record was taken of the traffic which passed in front of King's jewelry store just north of Depot square. George Cook, assistant engineer, who took down the records yesterday, had every bit he could attend to between four and five in the afternoon, when the traffic is the heaviest. Engineer Reed states that when he has the records made up the amount of traffic shown on our streets and sidewalks will be surprising.
